Overview:
Proctor seeks out postgraduate students who will benefit from and contribute to a full year of academic growth beyond high school. Proctor typically enrolls 4-8 post-graduate students each year. While Proctor does not offer a separate postgraduate program, students have the opportunity to be challenged academically, develop athletically and artistically, and explore Proctor’s rich curriculum. In all cases, the goal is for postgraduate students to be invested in the personal growth and development attained during a 5th year of high school, and not solely focused on college matriculation.

Academic Requirements
Postgraduates must have a diploma from their previous high school, as well as completed Proctor’s graduation requirements prior to enrolling. Prerequisites for a postgraduate year are as follows:
- 4 years of English
- 3 years of Math through Algebra 2
- 3 years of Social Science including US History (unless an International Student)
- 3 years of Laboratory Science, including Biology
- 2 years of Foreign Language
*Course of study is secured during the summer prior to enrollment and is tailored to the goals of the individual student.

Athletics and NCAA Eligibility
Prospective student-athlete postgraduates are encouraged to register with the NCAA clearinghouse and be aware of issues relating to NCAA eligibility. Only one course during a postgraduate year can be used towards securing NCAA eligibility for Division I.

College Counseling
Postgraduate students benefit from the expertise of our college counseling department. Typically postgraduates will meet with their college counselor during the spring or summer prior to the start of school to solidify college lists, discuss a course of study and establish a strong working relationship. Applicants should familiarize themselves with Proctor’s College Counseling Program and the resources available.
